

LegalHub

Summary

LegalHub is a social media application, designed similarly to Instagram, that is specifically geared towards people involved in legal cases. Most users are criminal defendants, though plaintiffs and defendants in civil lawsuits are also welcome. However, one must be actively involved in a case and must submit official documentation prior to joining LegalHub in order to weed out spam accounts as well as undercover government or law enforcement officials. LegalHub users can follow, like, DM, and comment just like on Instagram but can also donate money to others and find attorneys in their area that can help them fight their cases.

Transactions (non-exhaustive list)

1. Create/update profile
2. Update paperwork on file
3. Follow other users
4. Create post
5. Add to story
6. Like/comment/repost other users' content
7. Donate to other users
8. Connect with attorneys
9. Send direct messages
10. Create a report of possible misinformation/wrong advice

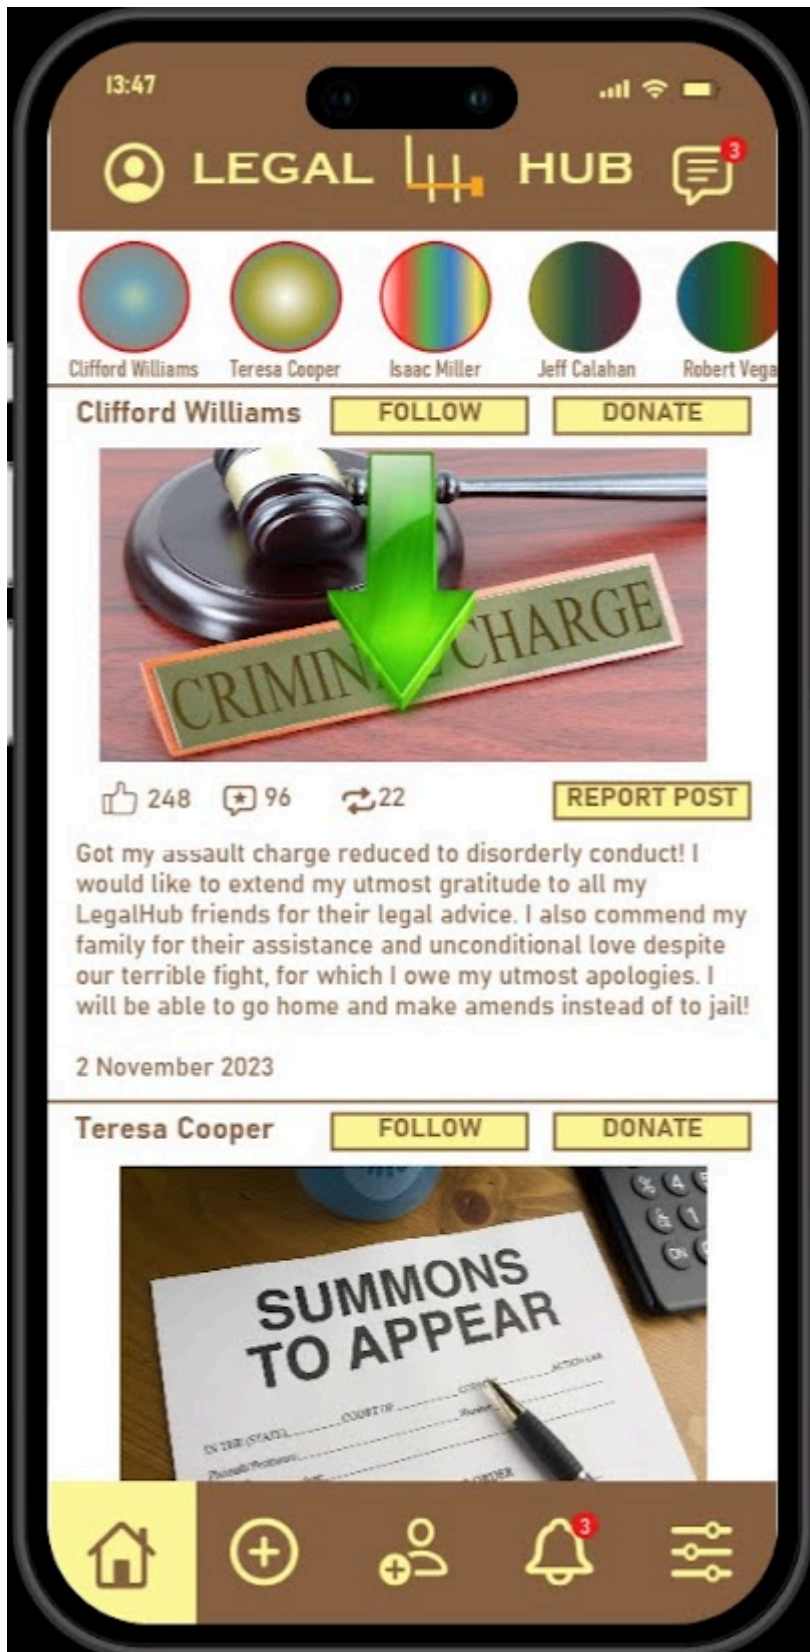

“Followers” and “Following boxes are clickable and show a user’s followers or users the user is following when clicked

This button lets the user manually update the official paperwork associated with their case

PENDING_TRIAL_FREE_ON_BOND is a code LegalHub automatically entered on the user’s behalf when LegalHub was notified that the user had bonded out of jail

This button shows a list of all outstanding fees (fines, court costs, probation, attorney, etc) associated with the case and lets user pay either all at once or in installments

The upper-left button shows the user's profile; the upper-right button shows direct messages.

The profile pics, when clicked, show users' stories; red borders mean new/unseen stories

Clicking the user's name displays their profile page; "Follow" sends a follow request and "Donate" shows donation options

These icons let users like, comment, and repost respectively; the "Report" button lets users flag the post for suspected misinformation or incorrect legal advice

The "Following" button, when clicked, allows the user to unfollow the account

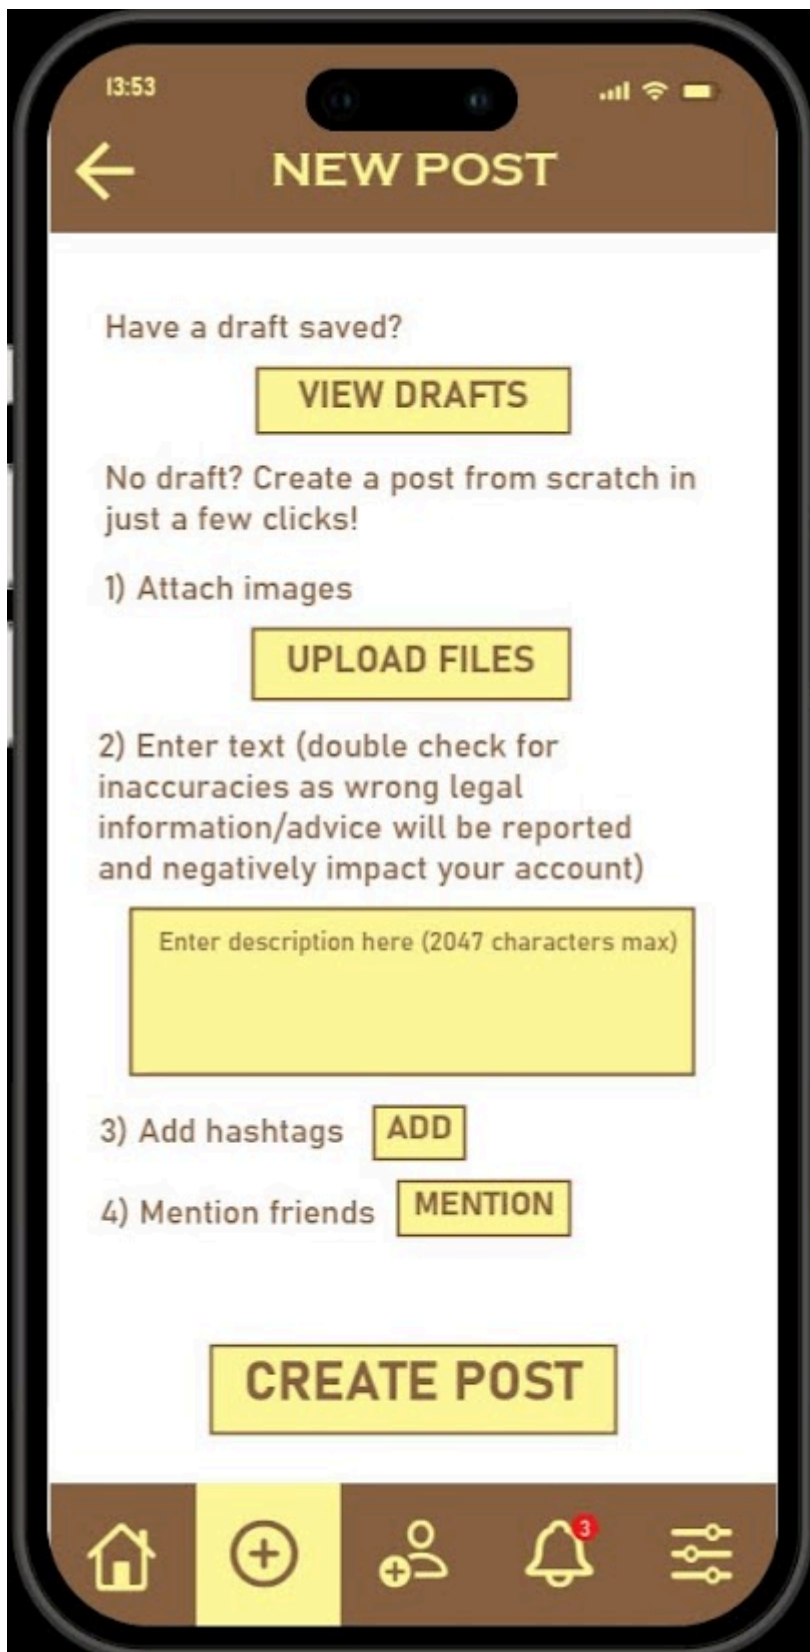

Users have two options to donate to others. There are "DONATE" buttons in others' posts as well as on profile pages.

The like, comment, or repost item will become solid/filled when a user likes, comments, or reposts

The check button accepts the follow request. The X button declines. The "?" button puts the request on hold and saves it as a Direct Message.

Unfinished posts are saved as drafts when the back button (left-facing arrow in the upper-left-hand corner) is clicked

“Create Post”, when clicked, gives the user to submit their content as a post (which is permanent and shows up when users scroll down on the LegalHub homepage) or as a story (which only lasts 24 hours and is accessible from the top of the homepage)

MANUAL ATTORNEY SEARCH

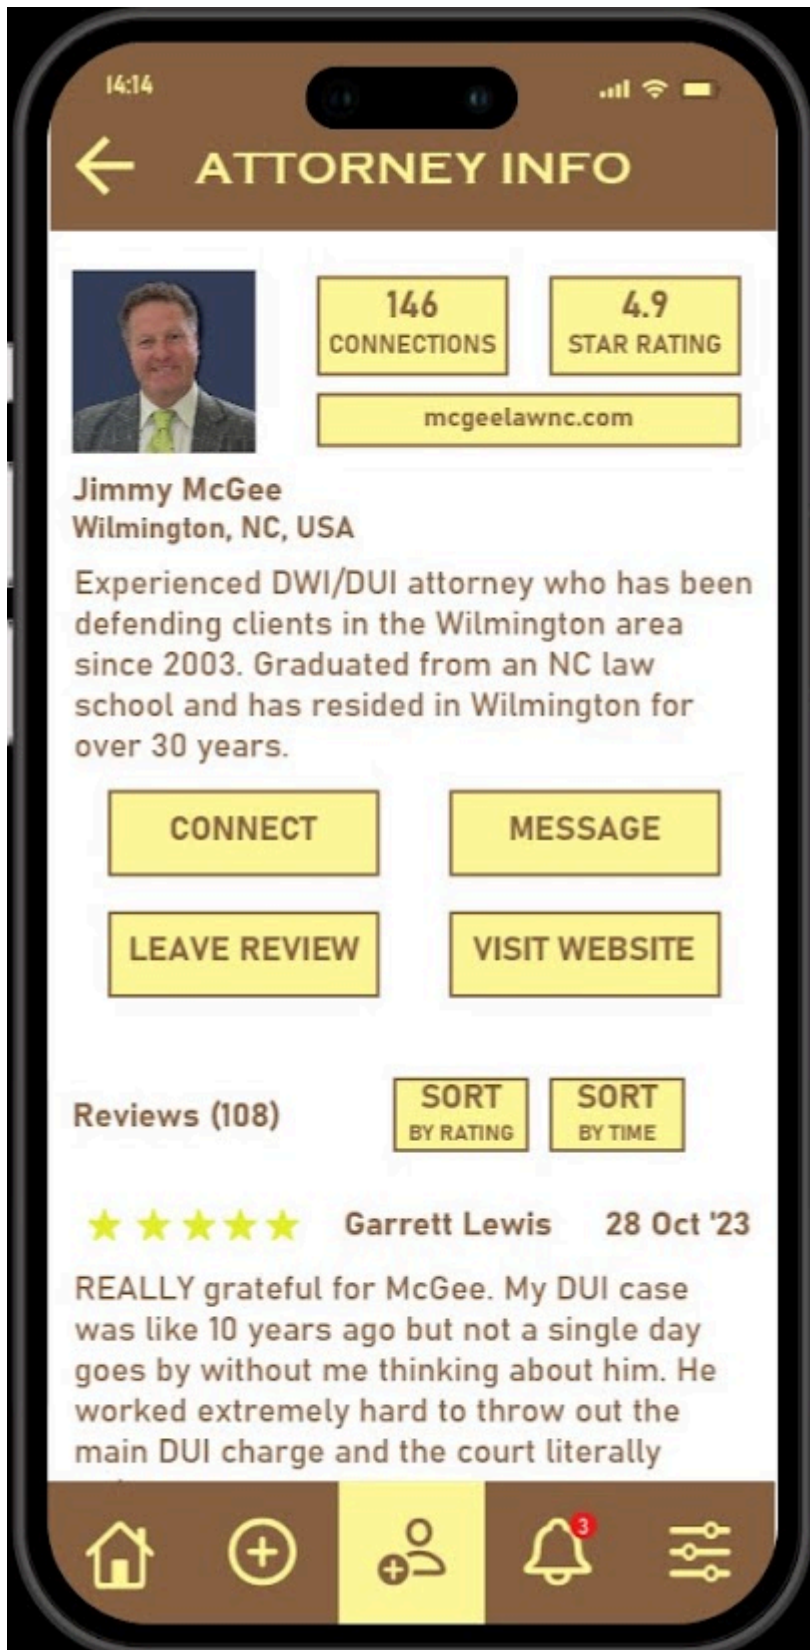

3

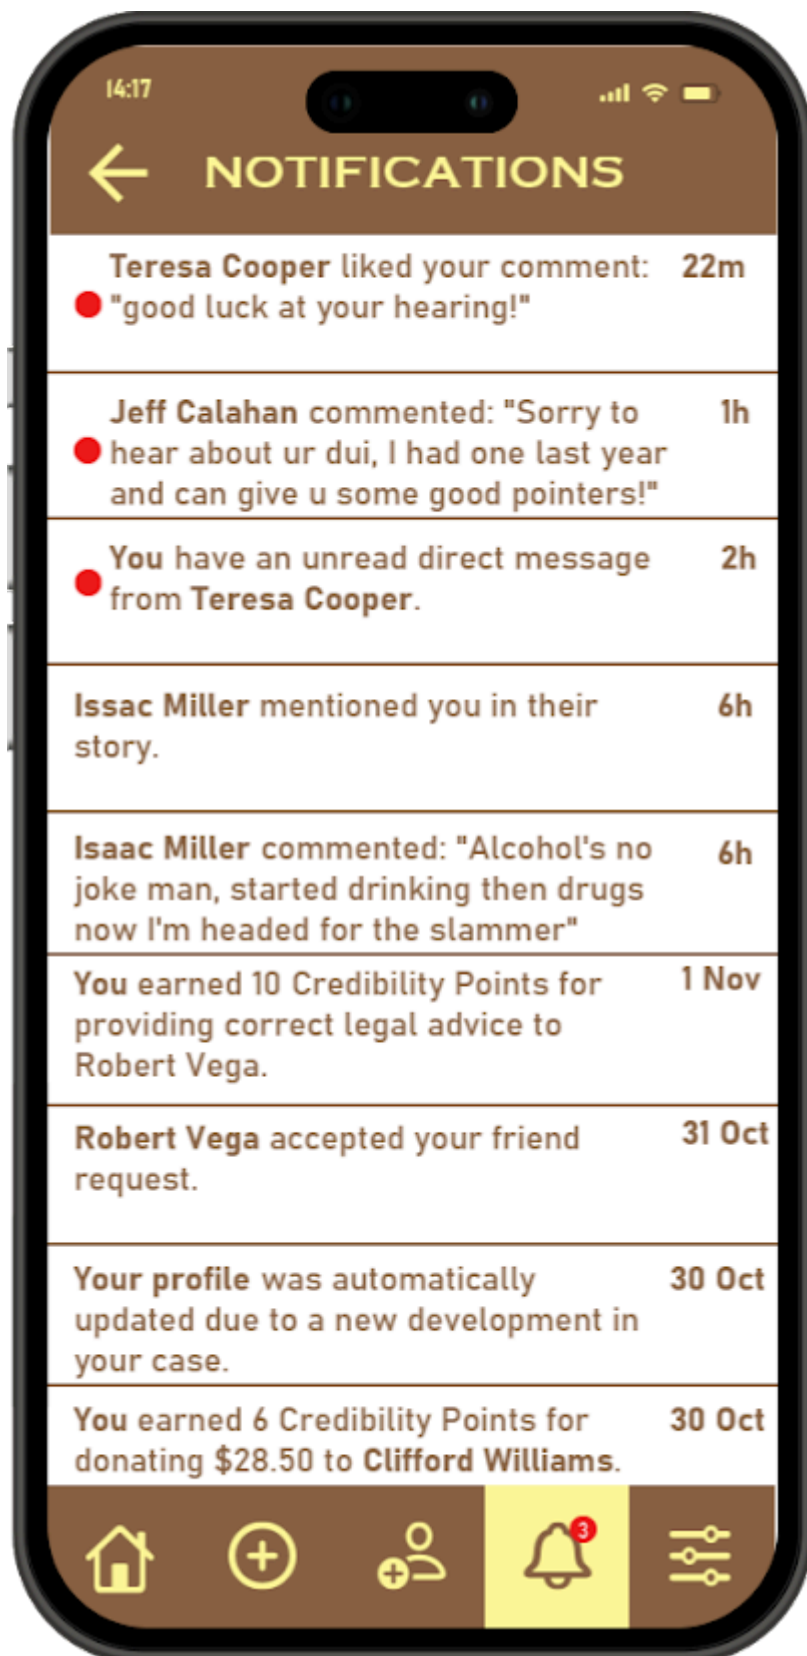

The page initially displays only the “FIND FRIENDS” and “FIND ATTORNEYS” headings; users click them to show the rest of the options

Connections are to attorneys as followers are to users; clicking the number of connections shows a list of the users who are "following" the attorney

When clicked once, the "SORT" buttons sort from highest/recent to lowest/oldest; they sort the other way when clicked a second time

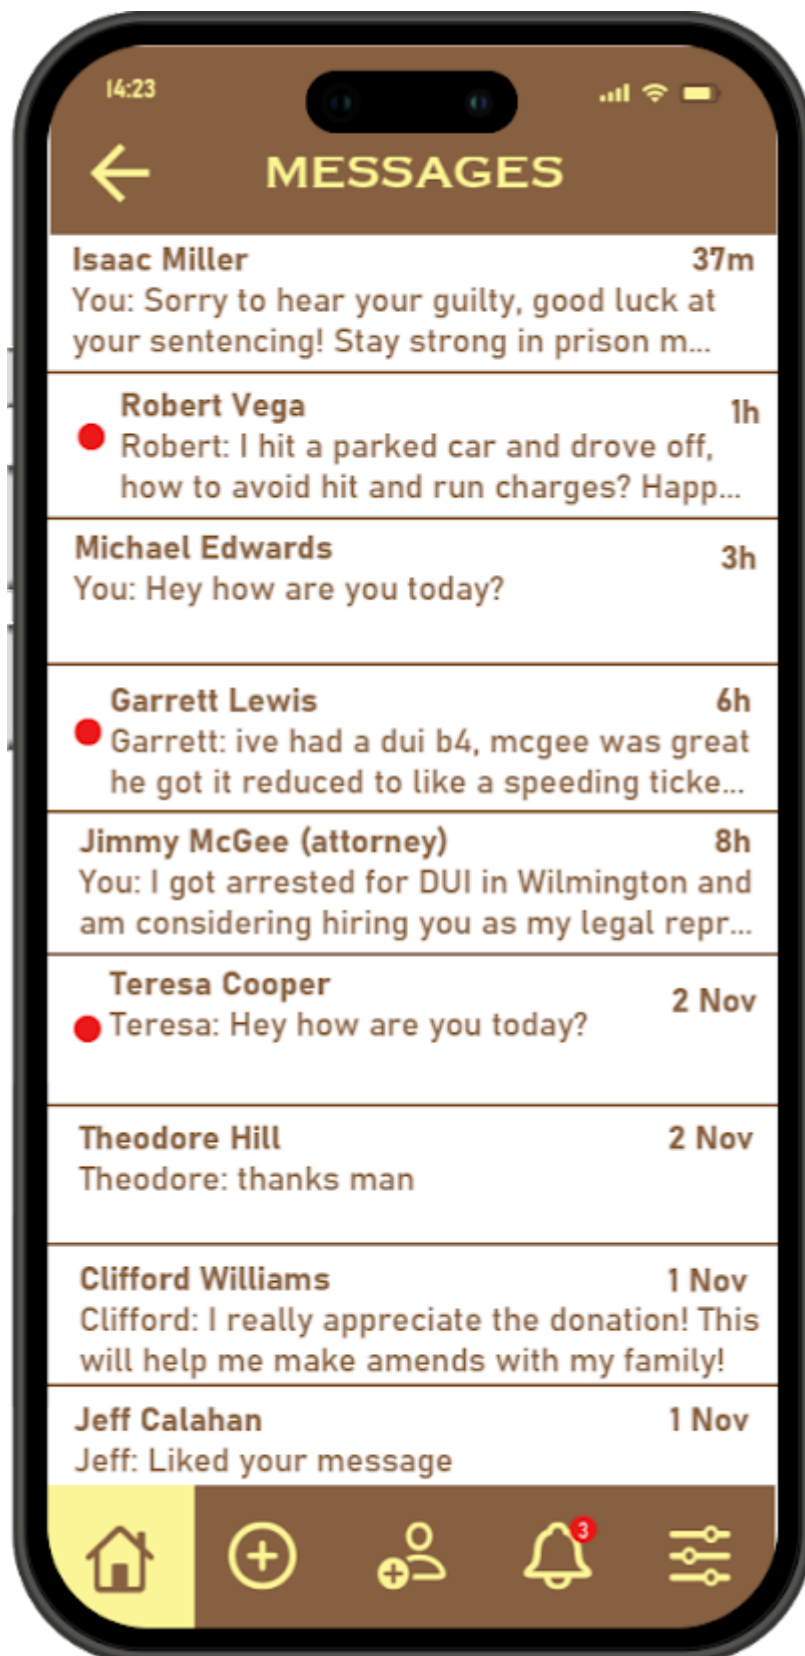

A red dot means the user has yet to open or acknowledge the notification

A user will receive a notification from LegalHub if they have a direct message that they have not seen or replied to for 24 hours

Users can swipe left on notifications to delete them

Clicking a message opens the chat and allows the user to send another message

A red dot means the user has yet to reply to or even “read” the message

When a recipient clicks on a message but doesn't reply, the sender will see “Seen” under the sent message; sender will not receive a notification
